difference between nostoc and anabaena - photosynthesis, it releases oxygen into the atmosphere. figure 02: anabaena anabaena can be found in fresh water, and it is considered as a contaminant of drinking water since it gives fishy odour and taste. anabaena is popular as a producer of neurotoxins, which is a harmful product for wildlife. ...

activity iii: surface area of a leaf (grades 7-9) nctm ... - through the process called photosynthesis plants absorb light through their leaves and use it to split water molecules into hydrogen and oxygen molecules. the oxygen is released into the atmosphere and the hydrogen is combined with carbon dioxide from the atmosphere to create sugar to feed the plant.
